BIOGRAPHY

My Linh Mac (Millie) is a Saigonese mixed-media artist, visual designer, and educator based between Fort Collins, CO, and Chicago, IL. Her fine art practice bridges traditional storytelling with contemporary structural techniques. Having lived across Vietnam, Singapore, Australia, and the United States, Millie's journey navigating diverse worldviews — raised in Buddhism while educated in Catholic and Lutheran institutions—infuses her work with a deep exploration of identity, spiritual well-being, and cross-cultural resonance.

Her distinct practice is anchored by body-of-work achievements such as the Ranbu series—a contemporary, "no-brush" painting collection encased in smooth glazes that mimic marbled, bound literary treasures—and the Constellation series, which uses sacred geometric motifs like the circle to explore cosmic energy, eternity, and dimensional balance. Millie's work has been showcased in galleries, art fairs, hotels and museums across 20 countries, with highlights including exhibitions at the Louvre Museum in Paris, the Czong Institute for Contemporary Art (CICA) in South Korea, the Queen Victoria Museum and Gallery in Australia, the Angad Arts Hotel in St. Louis, and a featured display in NY Times Square. She has served as a Visual Art Panelist for the National Endowment for the Arts (NEA) and continues to mentor emerging creators globally. Through every laser-cut layer and hand-painted line, Millie constructs visual pathways across cultures, offering viewers a quiet sanctuary to rediscover meaning in an increasingly transient world.

ARTIST STATEMENTS

My work reflects my quirky approach to colors, blending the structures, principles, and utility of design with the with the rawness, chaos, and freedom of fine art. In my multidisciplinary works, I discovered my artistic niche by manipulating materials and presentation platforms to create art in one medium that looks to have been created in another.
